D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS

DR. EGGLESTON'S NEW HISTORY.

The Transit of Civilization.

From England to America in the Seventeenth Century.

By EDWARD EGGLESTON. A new volume in the author's "History of Life in the United States." Uniform with the first volume, "The Beginners of a Nation." Small 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

In this unique volume the eminent historian pictures the literary, scientific, and other influences which were brought to this country from Europe in the early years of our history. He shows the religious ideas which the immigrants of the seventeenth century brought with them, and the modification of these ideas. Mother English, folk speech, folk lore and literature are presented with an unequalled richness of knowledge. The moral code and weights and measures of conduct are explained. The medical practice of that century in England and in its American developments has never been described as it is in this book. It is well within bounds to say that no such book on culture in the seventeenth century has ever appeared in England or America. While the book may be read independently, it follows "The Beginners of a Nation" as the second volume in Dr. Eggleston's series of "A History of Life in the United States."

EDITION DE LUXE OF

David Harum,

A STORY OF AMERICAN LIFE. By EDWARD NOYES WESTCOTT. Printed from new plates, in two tints, on large paper. With nine copperplate photogravures and some seventy pictures by B. West Clinedinst, and other text designs by C. D. Farrand, and a new biography of the Author by Forbes Heermans. Uncut, gilt top, with specially designed binding in white vellum and gold. Limited Edition. Each copy numbered. 8vo. Price, $10.00 net.

The revision and resetting of this American Classic, together with its new and superb illustrations, afford an opportunity for an Edition de Luxe of a distinctive and peculiarly valuable character. The pictures are printed in one tint and the text in another, and the paper is of notably fine quality. Lovers of David Harum and of fine books will not be slow to appreciate this superb and definitive edition.

The "Christmas Story" from David Harum.

Crane Edition. Illustrated with pictures of William H. Crane in character and stage photographs. With preface and specially designed cover. Cloth, 75 cents.

No other episode in Mr. Westcott's famous book presents the tenderness and quaintness and the full quality of David Harum's character with the richness and pathos of the story which tells how he paid the "int'rist" upon the "cap'tal" invested by Billy P. Fortunately, this story lends itself readily to separate publication, and it forms an American "Christmas Carol" which stands by itself.

GUY BOOTHBY'S NEW ROMANCE,

My Indian Queen.

Being a Record of the Adventures of Sir Charles Verrinder, Baronet, in the East Indies. By GUY BOOTHBY, author of "Dr. Nikola's Experiment," "Pharos, the Egyptian," etc. No. 294, Appleton's Town and Country Library. 12mo, cloth, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

This brilliant romance opens with graphic scenes in eighteenth century London, from which the reader is transported to stirring adventures in India. The story is one of Mr. Boothby's most absorbing works.

A Dream of a Throne—Other Opinions.

"A powerful story of war and love, with constantly changing movement, strong color, and striking effects."—Philadelphia North American.

"This book will excite wonder and admiration. It is a Mexican prose-epic."—Philadelphia Item.

"There are many graphic descriptions in the story, many dramatic situations, many figures that move naturally, and love, mystery, and battle are added to its attractions."—The Argonaut.

"In 'A Dream of a Throne' we have, outside of history, the most considerable contribution to American literature inspired by Mexican themes. It is emphatically a story of the open air, of high and romantic adventure, and as all alive with the noise of horses' feet, as filled with intrigue, desperate fight and the clash of arms, as the great historical romances of the elder Dumas."—Mexican Herald.

"Will hold the interest to the close, and is well worth reading for its fine descriptive passages."—Boston Transcript.

"One of the best Mexican stories of recent publication. . . . The interest is maintained throughout."—Chicago Record.

NOTES IN SEASON.

TOWN TOPICS, New York City, has issued the December number of "Tales from Town Topics," another of their successful quarterlies of selections of the brightest and cleverest stories and verses that have appeared in Town Topics.

MACMILLAN & COMPANY have taken over from Harper & Brothers the publication of James Ford Rhodes's "History of the United States from the Compromise of 1850." The four volumes which are ready bring the history down to 1862. A new edition is on the press and will be published at once. They have also in preparation "Colonial Government," a new book by Paul S. Reinsel, which will appear in the Citizens' Library of Economics, Politics and Sociology.

ESS ESS PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, have just ready "Nigger Baby and Nine Beasts," by Alma Florence Porter, which is a biography of the great race horse "Nigger Baby," and stories of adventures with wild animals from woods and ranch. The book is illustrated by Gustave Verbeek and with its fine print and paper makes a dainty Christmas publication gotten up with the taste for which the publishers of The Smart Set are noted.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have issued "The Women of the Renaissance," by R. de Moulde La Clavière, translated by George Herbert Ely, which treats of the dawn of feminism in masterly fashion. They will shortly bring out Leslie Stephens' "The English Utilitarians," a sequel to his "History of English Thought in the Eighteenth Century;" a "Life of Huxley," by P. Chalmers Mitchell; and "The Early Poems of Tennyson," edited by John Churton Collins, a new volume in the Library of Standard Literature.

JAMIESON-HIGGINS Co., Chicago, have been obliged to prepare two editions of 5000 copies each to supply the advance orders for "Short Story Masterpieces," a volume of thirty-eight clever stories by such clever writers as Mary E. Wilkins, Irving Bachelor, Opie Read, George Ade, and others equally well known. Their two new books for young folks, "The Princess of Hearts," by Sheila E. Braine, and "Adventures in Toyland," by Edith King Hall, both with illustrations by Alice B. Woodward, have started off well.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON announce a limited impression of Perrot & Chipiez's "History of Art in Ancient Egypt," translated by Walter Armstrong, with upwards of 200 illustrations, many full-page and colored, an edition undertaken to enable the publishers to supply a few complete sets of the Perrot & Chipiez "History of Art" in twelve volumes. "The History of Art in Chaldea and Assyria" is so nearly out of print that these volumes will no more be sold except in complete sets. Terms to the trade will be furnished on application. Librarians should be quick to avail themselves of this chance.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have now ready the long awaited "Literary History of America," by Barrett Wendell, Professor of English at Harvard University. The book has grown far beyond the author's original intention and is one of the most important books of the year. "William Herschell and His Work," by James Sime, is added to the World's Epochmakers' Series; and the Bishop Paddock Lectures for 1900 are issued under the title "The Scientific Evidences of Revealed Religion," by the Rev. Charles Woodruff Shields. Oliver Herford's new book of verses and pictures entitled "Overheard in a Garden," of which many of the quaint, witty devices are printed in color, is also just ready.

by L: Betts. Chic., H. S. Stone & Co., 1900. c. 4+166 p. O. cl., $1.50.

In this new book by Dr. Banks, the author's skill in stating and illustrating familiar truths in an impressive and winning manner, is strikingly evidenced. The author has arranged several hundred simple truths in paragraphs appropriately headed in full face type. The truths are explained in a few terse sentences and then verses, entire poems, or prose selections having direct bearing on the truth are added, forming a perfect storehouse of suggestive material for the preacher and writer.

Banfield, Frank. John Wesley. Bost., Small, Maynard & Co., 1900. c. 16+128 p. por. T. (Westminster biographies.) cl., 75 c.

He proves that Wesley "helped materially in the gradual lifting of Anglo-Saxondom out of the Paganism in which it was wallowing part of the way on the road back towards a perfect Christianity." In the more important crises of his life he lets Wesley be his own biographer.

"This volume is intended to be supplementary to the volumes of the cycle of Bible study for college students published by the Students' Department of the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations. It partakes somewhat of their character, in that it presents a scheme of Bible readings which covers the main trend of Scripture teaching. But its supreme purpose is to combine with this study of the Word the emphasis which is everywhere found on its pages, upon the duty and opportunity to live to help men to know God and to win them to Jesus Christ."—Preface.

"The primary aim of these studies is to present a simple, vivid outline of the life of Jesus, using St. Mark's record and emphasizing His mighty works. In the study of the last week of the life portions of the other gospels are also used. An effort has been made at the same time to bring out the geography of Palestine, the manners and customs of its people, the various classes among them—in short, to give the setting of the picture. The studies will be found also to form a study of the book of Mark, and for this purpose the characteristics of this gospel have been constantly pointed out."—Introduction.

Adam Duncan was born in Dundee, Scotland, in 1731, and died in 1804. He ranked only after Nelson among his contemporaries. The author devotes special attention to the social and sanitary condition of the navy during his service. Very few papers or letters dealing with the private life of Duncan are available. The chief authority for the facts is "Admiral Duncan," by the Earl of Camperdown, published by the Longmans in 1897.

Lectures delivered to students in the Gettysburg Theological Seminary, by Dr. Wolf, the professor of New Testament exegesis and church history. He says of them in his preface: "Persuaded of the manifold advantages of the Christian Year to the Ministry of the Word, and acquainted with the scientific and edifying value of Nebe's Evangelischen Perikopen, it occurred to me what a series of lectures based upon this great work would present to my students a profitable variation from the usual exegetical methods."
- Wolf, Emma. Heirs of yesterday. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1900. c. 4-287 p. S. cl., $1.
The "heirs of yesterday" are the Jews. The story of a talented, cultured young Jewish surgeon who prefers to cast his lot socially with Gentiles rather than Jews. This decision is finally broken down by force of inheritance and tradition, Gentile prejudice and Jewish exclusiveness and especially by the fine idealism of a young Jewess. The scene is San Francisco just before the Spanish-American war. A plea for the study of the spiritual significance underlying all religions, and a fair statement of the strength and weakness of the Jewish and Christian characteristics.

DECEMBER 1, 1900.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, should reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

COURTESY IN BUSINESS.

At this time of the year when the book-stores are crowded with sight-seers and "shoppers," as well as buyers, and when the salesmen are working at high pressure all day long and into the night, it may not be amiss to again remind the quick-tempered and high-strung clerk of the absolute necessity of self-control. It may not be easy, indeed, for the moment homicide might seem justifiable; but after that would come "the deluge."

Salesmen, under all circumstances, must be invariably polite and obliging, not only for the benefit of their employers but for their own good. Civility, while it may be one of the scarcest articles in the market, is also one of the cheapest, and the net profit on it to the salesman, in the end, will be greater—not only from a social and moral point of view, but in dollars and cents—than on anything he may have to offer to a customer.

Pleasant manners are of the most inestimable value to business men, and especially to those who are brought into direct contact with the public. In the retail line many a business has suffered materially, while others have been entirely ruined, by the inability of the proprietor to show a pleasant face continually while being subjected to a badgering by a half-dozen whimsical and shallow-brained customers. A customer may be fully aware that one may "smile, and smile, and be a villain," and that a courteous disposition and affable manners may be no criterion of a person's character; that, in fact, he stands more of a chance of being cheated by the polite dealer than by one of morose and surly temper; yet such is human nature that nine out of ten people, particularly those of the gentler sex, would actually prefer, if they had a choice, to be cheated by a pleasant-mannered man, rather than to patronize a surly, disagreeable dealer of the most undoubted integrity.

And yet one frequently finds enterprising dealers who are punctilious in the matter of stock and its display, and who are strenuous in their efforts to extend their trade by every channel open to them, who allow that trade to be hampered and new patrons repulsed by neglecting so small an essential as common politeness.

Affability and pleasant manners do not by any means imply servility, and there can be no excuse for the dealer or clerk who fails to display them in the interests of the business. Politeness is one of the few weapons that the small dealer especially has at his command to meet the competition of larger dealers, as the larger the business the greater number of assistants required, and the less chance of the customers being treated with uniform deference—clerks being apt to be more wanting in this respect than the proprietors of stores. Those who doubt our assertion that this advantage is not fully utilized by the average retail dealer will find by observation that our remarks are not altogether founded upon theory.

PUBLISHERS' EXHIBIT AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

SELIM H. PEABODY, Superintendent of Liberal Arts of the Pan-American Exposition to be held at Buffalo, N. Y., next year, has published the following circular relating to the exhibit which American publishers are expected to make:

"It is proposed to make, under the title of Publishers' Exhibit, a collective exhibit of books and periodicals in the Department of Liberal Arts. A space, sixteen by twenty feet in floor area, facing an aisle on three sides, may be surrounded by cases, and be provided with tables in the interior. The shelving in the wall cases would furnish exhibit space for books in any desired number, from single volumes to the whole exhibit of a publishing house. Cases glazed all around may occupy the corners between aisles. Large books and periodicals may find places on the tables; if necessary in glazed cases. Wall space above wall cases may be occupied with posters, etc.

"The expense of this installation will be borne by the occupants, and will be both general and special. General expense, such as the cost of floor space, of installation, of attendance and janitor service, would be divided among all the occupants of the area, in accordance with estimated benefit. Special expenses, such as that of cases or tables, or of shelf room in cases, would be assessed pro rata of the cost of the cases upon the special occupants thereof.

"The articles shown will be tastefully and clearly labelled. Each will be eligible for award.

"A publisher who wishes to occupy an entire case may furnish his own if conformable to the general design.

"It is believed that the method proposed will be economical of space and of expense, and that when successfully carried into effect it will be much more satisfactory than the results which would follow assignments of space to be occupied by separate booths constructed by the several exhibitors.

"Desk room will not be provided; sales and the soliciting of subscriptions will not be permitted.

"Publishers who desire to avail themselves of the method of exhibiting thus proposed are requested to address the undersigned without delay. Blank forms of application and needed information will be furnished."

FOREIGN CORPORATIONS IN ILLINOIS.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE has sent out the following communication, which is of interest to incorporated firms contemplating the establishing of agencies in the State of Illinois:

"We have communicated with the Secretary of State of Illinois, who in reply writes that a Foreign Corporation desiring to transact business in the State must file with his office a certified copy of their complete Articles of Incorporation, certified to by the Secretary of State of the State in which they are incorporated, execute an affidavit, and pay the fee prescribed by Statute. Said law does not apply to corporations doing business within the State, within the meaning of the Interstate Commerce Law; that is, the Act does not apply to drummers and travelling salesmen soliciting business for foreign corporations which are entirely non-resident.

"Foreign Corporations' means any corporation formed in any other State, territory or country than Illinois.

"The fees are based on the proportion of capital stock representing the property located and business transacted in the State, and are as follows: Under $2500.00, $33.00; from $2500.00 to and including $5000.00, $53.00, with an additional $1.00 for each $1000.00 above $5000.00."

KIPLING SUES ANOTHER PUBLISHER.

AUGUSTUS T. GURLITZ, on behalf of Rudyard Kipling, brought suit on November 17, in the United States Circuit Court, New York, against R. F. Fenno & Co. for infringement of copyright in publishing editions of Kipling's works. The editions mentioned in the complaint were said to have been put on the market on October 1 and were known as "Library Edition Works of Rudyard Kipling," and "The Pocket Edition Works of Rudyard Kipling." The suit is brought for an accounting and an injunction is asked for to restrain the sale of the publications mentioned in the complaint.

THE MCKEE LIBRARY SALE.

THE first portion of the McKee library was sold November 22 and 23, by John Anderson, Jr. The sales were well attended by collectors and dealers and the prices realized were as a rule above the average. The feature of the first day's sale was the long series of Poe items, chief among which was a copy of "Tamerlane," originally picked up by McKee for fifty cents. Considerable excitement prevailed when the book was announced and bidding started at a lively rate. The race finally narrowed down to George H. Richmond and E. R. Halsey, the latter dropping out when the $2000 stake was reached and Mr. Richmond carrying off the prize for $2050. When a copy of "Tamerlane," in the original paper covers, came up for sale at Libbie's in April, 1892, it brought the phenomenal price of $1850; a few years later the same copy in a Parisian binding dropped four hundred dollars when it again came up for sale at auction. Mr. Halsey secured a copy of the original edition of Poe's "Al Aaraap, Tamerlane, and Minor Poems," (Baltimore, 1829,) in the original boards, for $1000, as well as other Poe items.

Other high, if not record prices, were: Poe's "Poems," (New York, 1831, original cloth,) $365; Poe's own copy of The Broadway Journal, $240; the copy of "The Raven" and "Tales" which Poe gave to Mrs. Whitman, $610; Andre's "Cow Chase," (New York, 1780,) $270; Anne Bradstreet's "Tenth Muse," (London, 1650,) $460; Irving's "Knickerbocker's New York," (New York, 1809,) two volumes; original boards, uncut, $290; Roger Walcott's "Meditations," (New London, Conn., 1725,) $300; Massachusetts Magazine, v. 1-6, 1789-1794, $210; Winthrop Sargent's "Loyalist Party of the Revolution," $200; Whittier's "Moll Pitcher," (Boston, 1832,) $160; and Royall Tyler's "The Contrast," $120. A total of over $15,000 was obtained for the two days' sales.

The next section of the McKee library, consisting chiefly of works on the drama, will be sold late in January.

COST PRICE NOT ACTUAL VALUE IN DETERMINING DAMAGE TO BOOKS.

IN the case of Henry Miller, the well-known New York bookseller, to recover damages caused by water that was permitted to overflow through the negligence of one of the tenants who occupied a floor in the building at 122 Nassau Street above Miller's store, ruling was had that will interest the retail trade at large.

It seems that Mr. Miller first catalogued the books which were practically destroyed, at actual cost prices, without adding for labor, interest or transportation. Then he selected those which could be repaired, and estimated the cost thereof. The statement thus made up was given to the defendant, who took away the books rather than have them sold at auction, and never returned them.

It was not claimed that the cost price standing by itself proved actual value. That was but an incident of the computation resorted to for the purpose of showing defendant that if he would settle amicably the greatest liberality would be shown him. Refusing to do so, although retaining the books, Mr. Miller proceeded to show actual value, which was testified to be twenty-five per cent. above the cost, and which was allowed by the court. This is a valuable point gained, as hitherto in determining damage to books the cost price has been insisted upon as a basis of valuation.

THE BOOKBUILDERS' DINNER.

THE bookbuilders gave a dinner to their members and friends on the evening of November 21, at their new rallying place, The Poplars, 26 East Twentieth Street, New York. Among the guests who had something to say about books and their makers were Hamlin Garland and W. D. Howells. Dan Beard was toastmaster. Mr. Garland made an appeal for the American novel of contemporary life, saying that it was unfortunate that some Americans of considerable talent should go to history or to foreign lands for their themes when the life around them had so much to express and yet seemed to present so few attractions for the average American writer. Mr. Howells spoke upon the same subject, but from a broader, more human, and cosmopolitan point of view, showing that what constituted the "typically American" was really the composite expression of the best that was in the French, the German, the Italian, and the English, and that, from this point of view, American writers were doing work that was both interesting and valuable, and which, in some cases, showed undoubted signs of permanency.

At a meeting held November 27th the Directors were authorized to execute a lease for one year for the third floor of The Poplars. In order to provide funds for maintaining a club room the initiation fee will very likely be increased to $10, and the annual dues also to $10.

OBITUARY NOTES.

SIR ARTHUR SEYMOUR SULLIVAN, the musical composer, died suddenly in London November 22. Sir Arthur was born in London, May 13, 1842. Though he wrote much in a serious vein, he is best known through his light operetta work, and in that direction chiefly through the operettas composed in co-operation with W. S. Gilbert, such as "H. M. S. Pinafore," "The Pirates of Penzance," and "Patience."

THOMAS ARNOLD, son of the famous Dr. Arnold, of Rugby, brother of Matthew Arnold and father of the well-known novelist, Mrs. Humphry Ward, died in Dublin on November 12. He was seventy-seven years of age. He accompanied the late Cardinal Newman to Ireland some years ago, and remained there ever since. He was the author of a number of works on English literature. Recently he wrote letters for the Freeman's Journal, in which he showed a warm sympathy for the Filipinos.

CHARLES HALE HOYT, the playwright, died at Charlestown, N. H., November 20. He was born at Concord, N. H., July 26, 1860. In 1880 he became a writer on the staff of the Boston Post. In 1885 he gave up journalism and began writing pieces for the stage which resembled vaudeville performances, but had a thread of continuity in them. The first of these was "Gifford's Luck," and the next "A Bunch of Keys." These were followed by "A Parlor Match," "A Rag Baby," "A Tin Soldier," "A Texas Steer," "A Trip to Chinatown," "A Milk White Flag," etc., all of which were immensely popular. He was twice a member of the New Hampshire Legislature and at one time was the Democratic candidate for speaker.

OSCAR WILDE, writer, lecturer, and æsthetic poseur, died on the 30th ult. of meningitis, at a small hotel in the Latin Quarter in Paris, where he had been living under an assumed name. For the past three years, after his release from an imprisonment of two years at hard labor, he had been living on the Continent under an assumed name, making a scanty living by literary work. Wilde was born in Dublin, Oct. 16, 1856. He was well educated, having received a scholarship at Dublin University, and matriculated at Magdalen College, Oxford, where he won the Newdigate prize for poetry. He sought and obtained a wide notoriety through his eccentricities of dress and his adoption of the rôle of the "apostle of the æsthetic," and he developed his cult in a successful lecture tour of the United States. He was caricatured by Du Maurier in Punch, and satirized in light opera and comedy, notably in Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience." After a profitable experience as apostle of the æsthetic he turned to novel and play writing, producing various works of a pseudo-brilliance and loose morality. He had reached the zenith of his fame in 1894, when five of his plays were being acted in London theatres at one time and his poems and books were widely read. Among his works were: "The Picture of Dorian Grey"; "Intentions," literary essays; "Poems," first published in 1881 and reissued in several editions; "The House of Pomegranates," "Salome," "The Happy Prince," etc. His downfall came in 1895 when he was convicted of an infamous crime and sentenced to two years imprisonment, from which he was released in 1897. He was generally recognized as the author of the striking "Ballad of Reading Gaol," published anonymously in 1898, truly a strong and remarkable production; and it is said that he wrote the "problem" play, "Mr. and Mrs. Daventry," now being produced in London. In his earlier life Wilde was strongly attracted toward Catholicism, but after a visit to Greece he became an advocate of Paganism in its most corrupt form. It is said that just before his death he had been received into the Roman Catholic church.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

COUNT TOLSTOI has finished the drama, "The Corpse," upon which he has been engaged for some time past. The play, which is in twelve scenes, will be produced immediately after its publication.

MME. SARAH GRAND, the author of "The Heavenly Twins," is to come to this country early next year to deliver two lectures—"Mere Man" and "The Human Quest"—which were received quite favorably in England.

A. J. DREXEL BIDDLE, F. G. S. A., F. R. G. S., etc., the Philadelphia author-publisher, who last winter was elected fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London, as well as member of several other famous scientific institutions in this country and abroad, in recognition of the comprehensive two-volume work on the "Madeira Islands" he completed after twelve years of labor and research, and had published in London about a year ago, has received an invitation from the president and secretaries of the Royal Meteorological Society of Great Britain to become a fellow of that famous organization. The society has about a hundred stations in the British Isles.

The catalogue has been prepared by a well-known librarian and may be relied upon as an impartial guide in the selection of books. (137 p. 16° flex. cl.)

of this young publishing house is probably best indicated by the appearance of this catalogue, which represents the productions of only about three years, and includes the writings of about one hundred and fifty authors, among whom are such names as Kipling, Booth Tarkington, Ellen Glasgow, William Allen White, Miss Wilkins, Joel Chandler Harris, Edwin Markham, Gilbert Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Seton-Thompson, S. R. Crockett, Stephen Crane, Henry George, Charles Dana Gibson, Anthony Hope, Jokai, Henry D. Lloyd, Dr. John Watson, Goldwin Smith, Col. George E. Waring, and many others whose books are of permanent value. With their new magazine, The World's Work, edited by Walter H. JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE large edition of the first number of the American edition of The Monthly Review, handled in this country by Doubleday, Page & Co., has been entirely sold out—even at the high price of 60 cents a number, or $7 a year.

THE second number of Our Players' Gallery, shortly to be published by Meyer Bros. & Co., 26 W. Thirty-third Street, New York, will contain reproductions of photographs of "L'Aiglon," as performed by the French and American artists, including stage settings and scenery. The first number of this magazine, of which an edition of 10,000 copies was printed, is out of print.

NORMAN MACOLL, who has been editor of the London Athenaeum since 1869, will retire with the new year from that position. Mr. Macoll was born in 1843, and took up the important position he is about to resign at the age of twenty-six, very shortly after he left Cambridge. His only book, "The Greek Sceptics from Pyrrho to Sextus," was published in the year when he became editor of the Athenaeum. His successor will be Vernon Rendall, a Trinity man, who has acted as sub-editor for the last four years.

THE W. B. CLARKE COMPANY, Boston, will shortly publish "King Arthur in Avalon" and other poems, by Sara Hammond Palfrey, author of "Herman; or, Young Knighthood," "Sir Paven and Saint Paven," etc.

A. C. McCLURG & Co., Chicago, will publish, early in December, "The Last Years of the Nineteenth Century," by Mrs. E. W. Latimer, a book intended to bring up to date each of the author's six "Nineteenth Century" histories.

JAMES POTT & Co. have prepared an edition of one hundred copies of Cook's "Old Touraine." This edition is printed on Old Stratford Antique paper, with the photogravures on Japanese paper. The binding is vellum, richly decorated in gold.

H. J. COOK, 21 Golden Square, London, will publish shortly "Pope Joan," a sensational historical romance based on the alleged "Pontifical" career of the crafty woman who was known as Pope Joan VIII., translated from the modern Greek, by J. H. Freese.

D. C. HEATH & COMPANY have just issued a special edition of Mérimée's "Colomba," with vocabulary and notes by Prof. J. A. Fontaine; "Huit Contes Choisis par Maupassant," short stories edited with notes by Elizabeth M. White; and a "New Practical Speller," by James H. Penniman, with many new and attractive features.

BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY announce that Maurice Thompson's story of American life, "Alice in Old Vincennes," is now selling at the rate of 3500 copies a day. Canada has taken up over 10,000 copies, and a fortnight after publication 40,000 copies of the book had been sold. A month after publication it had scored a sale of 70,000 copies.

SOME time in January, 1901, E. P. Dutton & Co. will publish "The Painters of Florence, from the Thirteenth to the Sixteenth Centuries," by Julia Cartwright, (Mrs. Ady,) author of "Beatrice d'Este." This book will give the results of recent researches and a brief account of the lives and works of the chief Florentine painters. It will be appropriately illustrated.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in preparation two new volumes of prose and verse by Eugene Field, entitled "Sharps and Flats," made up of gleanings from Field's famous column of that name in the Chicago Record. The selection is made by Slason Thompson, a Chicago newspaper man, who assisted Field eleven years ago in the publication of his previous books of verse and prose.

GINN & COMPANY have just ready "The Story of American History," by Albert F. Blaisdell; "Four Friends," by Jane Andrews, stories of the four seasons; "Fifty Letters of Cicero," edited with vocabulary by J. H. Dillard; "Lane's Primary Picture Cards," designs to teach the child to study; and "Edelsteine," six stories by German authors with notes and vocabulary by Richard A. Minckwitz.

LIFE PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, has in preparation a volume of short stories to be entitled "Half Portions." Among the stories to be included are "My Lady of the Veil," by Clay Arthur Pierce, and "Her First Dinner," by E. R., both illustrated by T. K. Hanna. Other artists who have combined to make this very attractive book are Oliver Hereford, Allan Gilbert, W. L. Jacobs, W. H. Hyde, and F. T. Richards.

M. F. MANSFIELD, New York City, announces the first volume of "Stevensoniana," made up from fragmentary pieces by and about R. L. Stevenson, with portraits, facsimiles and other material not easily accessible. The edition of 1000 copies of "The Book of Omar and Rubaiyat" is now on the market, and it will not be reprinted. The de luxe edition of Tennyson's "In Memoriam" has also been sold within 150 copies, and there will be no more except 500 for England only.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just ready "The Grand Canyon of the Colorado River in Arizona," by Prof. George Wharton James, giving the Indian legends of the region, studies in geology and a good bibliography; "Falaise, the Town of the Conqueror," by Anna Bowman Dodd; a second edition of Lafcadio Hearn's "Shadowings;" a third edition of A. W. Jackson's "James Martineau;" a second edition of Francesca Alexander's "The Hidden Servants;" also, "Twelve Great Artists," the new volume by William Howe Downes.

PETER ECKLER, New York City, is now the publisher of the following books, formerly published by J. B. Lippincott Co.; "Man, Whence and Whither?" "The Bible, Whence and What?" "Girard's Will and Girard's College Theology;" "Marriage and Divorce;" and "Clergy on Divorce." He also has taken over from the Truth Seeker Company "Shall the Bible be Read in Public School?" and Ladd's "Hebrew and Christian Mythology," with appendix.

SCOTT, FORESMAN & Co., Chicago, will publish shortly a volume entitled "The Expansion of the American People," by Professor Edwin Erle Sparks, of the University of Chicago. The book describes the movement of the people across the continent, weaving in local history at every point and showing how all these incidents have led to the making of the union. Routes of migration, means of travel, and increase of communication are given a large space. The book is profusely illustrated with reproductions from photographs of historical places and rare woodcuts, which the author has spent many years in collecting.

CASELL & Co. have two very important descriptive works in "Among the Berbers of Algeria," by Anthony Wilkin, the record of the wanderings of two anthropologists among the Chawia and Kabyles, the two great Berber tribes of Algeria; and "In the Ice World of Himalaya," by Fanny Bullock and William Hunter Workman, describing ascents of peaks from 18,600 to 21,000 feet above the sea. They have also an entirely new illustrated edition of Lewis Wright's "Illustrated Book of Poultry;" "The Story of the Chinese Crisis," by Alexis Krausse; and a memoir of "William Londels," the fearless Baptist preacher of London, written by his son.

THE CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Nashville, Tenn., will publish at once a revised edition of "Alice McDonald, or, the heroine of principle," a story of the early Cumberland Presbyterian Church, by "James the Less" (J. B. Logan, D.D.). This story is largely veiled history, much of that which is related having actually occurred, names only being suppressed. Many Cumberland Presbyterians now living in Western Pennsylvania and elsewhere have already attested the close touch of the story with fact, and some are perhaps still living who "came into the Kingdom" at the great camp meeting which is so graphically described in its early pages.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY announce a new and complete edition of "The History and General Description of New France," by the Rev. P. F. X. De Charlevoix, S. J., translated from the original edition and edited with historical and other notes, by Dr. John Gilmary Shea, with a new memoir and bibliography of the translator by Noah Farnham Morrison, and numerous steel portraits, facsimiles of ancient maps, etc. It will be in six volumes and the edition is limited to 750 copies. They have also ready "Political Debates Between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas" in the celebrated campaign of 1858 in Illinois, including many speeches of each preceding that campaign and also the two great speeches of Abraham Lincoln in Ohio in 1859.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. announce for publication on December 15th a new volume of poems by Sir Lewis Morris, author of "The Epic of Hades." It comprises, besides a number of lyrics, two somewhat long-unpublished poems—one a study in elegiac verse, the other "A Georgian Romance," reproduced from a report of the Russian criminal tribunals of last spring, a story as dreadful and tragic as any in the annals of crime. It is in blank verse, and follows the facts accurately from beginning to end. There are also several odes, notably those on the liberation of Crete and the triumph of freedom in Cuba, and an "Apologia," which may perhaps attract attention. The volume is considered by its author likely to be his last. The book is being printed by the Merrymount Press.

JOHN MURRAY, London, has in preparation a "Life of Gilbert White of Selborne," in two volumes, by his great grandnephew, Raleigh Holt-White. Mr. Holt-White, who is the present head of the White family, has had access to MSS., journals, account books, and other unpublished papers of the naturalist, in addition to many letters of his hitherto entirely unknown and unpublished, and a large and most interesting series of letters from his life-long friend and contemporary, the Rev. J. Mulso. A record of a visit to Selborne in the summer of 1763, in the shape of a journal kept by one of the "Miss Batties," to whom the well-known verses on "Selborne Hanger—a Winter-piece" were addressed in the autumn of that year by Gilbert White, is also printed for the first time. Several photogravure portraits and numerous illustrations from family pictures will be included in the work.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. are fortunate in having secured the translation of Pierre Leroy-Beaulieu's "Renovation de l'Asie," which is translated under the title "The Awakening of the East," and has an introduction by Henry Norman. They have also just ready the sixth edition of "Monsieur Beaucaire," which brings the total published up to 36,000. The author, Booth Tarkington, is now conferring with Richard Mansfield regarding the production of the story as drama. "Lad o' the O'Shiels" is a long Irish story by Seumas Macmanus; Dr. Doyle's "Boer War" includes much information after the fall of Pretoria not covered in the general accounts published regarding the South African War; "The Powers That Prey" is a collection of stories showing how the police aid and abet criminals; and "The Soul of the Street" is a collection of stories of the Syrian and Turkish quarters in New York City.

GENERAL ALFRED C. BARNES, of the firm of A. J. Barnes & Co., and of the officers of the American Book Company, on November 26 was unanimously elected Colonel of the Twenty-third Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y. General Barnes joined the Seventh Regiment in 1860 and in 1862, when the Twenty-third Regiment was organized, he took his transfer from the Seventh Regiment and joined the Brooklyn organization. He was made sergeant in 1863 and participated in the Gettysburg campaign. In 1864 he became first lieutenant of Company E. He retired in 1867. In 1876 he again joined the regiment and became its Major. He resigned in 1879 to accept the place of General Inspector of rifle practice on the staff of Governor Cornell. He was elected Colonel of the Twenty-third Regiment in 1884 and retired a few years later. He has always been an active member of the Veteran Association.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS (Henry Frowde) are about to issue "The Oxford Book of English Verse, 1250-1900," poems chosen and edited by A. T. Quiller-Couch, in two sizes, one edition being on Oxford India Paper; "An English Miscellany," presented to Dr. Furnivall in honor of his seventy-fifth birthday and contributed to by some fifty authorities in this country and abroad on philology and early English literature; and "Studies in Foreign Literature," being the Taylorian lectures, 1889-1899, delivered by S. Mallarmé, W. Pater, W. P. Ker, H. Brown, A. Morel Fatio, E. Dowden, F. W. Rolleston, W. M. Rossetti, P. Bourget, C. H. Herford and H. Butler Clarke.

BERTRAM DOBELL claims to have discovered twenty sketches by Thackeray in a copy of "Harlequin and Humpty Dumpty," a Drury Lane pantomime of 1850-51. These drawings represent the leading characters in the piece and have all the peculiarities of Thackeray's style. "They resemble his work," asserts Mr. Dobell, "no less by virtue of their defects than by their merits. As usual with him, the figures are very defective in point of drawing, but they have a full share of the humor and quaintness which are always apparent in his designs. They are much akin to the illustrations of 'The Rose and the Ring,' and they also bear a strong resemblance to the 'King Glumpus' designs. I have shown them to several good judges, who have all recognized them as the work of Thackeray. Of course, I do not attach any great degree of importance to the present discovery, but it may be said, at least, that 'Humpty Dumpty,' like 'King Glumpus' and 'The Exquisites,' has the merit of excessive rarity, if no other, to recommend it to the enthusiastic collector of Thackerayana."

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will publish at once "Winsome Womanhood," a dainty, refreshing series of talks about the life and conduct of girls and women by Margaret Sangster. The illustrations are photographic studies from life of beautiful women, reproduced in sepia from pictures by W. B. Dyer. The initial pieces are decorated with copies of famous lace handkerchiefs. Three books on St. Paul are forthcoming: "In the Time of Paul," by Edward G. Selden; "The Man Paul," by Robert E. Speer; and "Onesimus, a work of fiction. A beautiful edition is just ready of "The Psalms of David," with illustrations by Louis Rhead and a sketch of David by Dwight Newell Hillis, who will also shortly have ready "Fighting One's Doubts," showing there is still a foundation for all the essential truths of Christianity. Other books just ready are "The Unaccountable Man," (Jesus,) by Dr. David James Burrell; "The Valley Music," by Charles G. Blanden; "Three Years With the Children," by Amos R. Wells; and three books in the series Ideal Messages, entitled "Unto Him," "For Eyes That Weep," and "For Hearts That Hope." William George Jordan, recently editor of the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post, has ready "The Majesty of Calmness," a companion volume to his former book, "The Kingship of Self-Control," which is still having a good sale.

A Curious Story

is being told concerning the facts which caused the publication of one of the most popular novels of the day. Some months ago a New York publisher heard that Mr. John U. Lloyd, a prominent chemist in Cincinnati, had written a rather remarkable story. He had no idea, however, of committing it to print. It had been written purely as a solace and an amusement, and the manuscript was being bound to tuck away in his library, where it was to remain until his death. The publisher, of course, begged permission to see it. On reading it he immediately recognized it as a novel of great force, individuality, and interest.

The author was unknown, and the risk may at first have seemed hazardous. The story was called "Stringtown on the Pike," and "serialized" in a literary paper. So deep was its effect, and so instant, that before the date of its publication in book form 10,000 copies had been sold—a remarkable feat for an author then almost unknown.

A second edition was put on the press and sold within two weeks of the date of publication; a third edition was sold in the next week; while the fourth edition is now selling and a fifth is in preparation (all within one month of the date of publication).

And why is all this? Why, amid the mass and ruck of current fiction, does the public suddenly affect interest in this tale of Northern Kentucky? Because the characters are absolutely alive, absolutely American, and truthful to the last degree. In tragic interest the story has not been found wanting. In perfect portrayal of some of those types of character that make up the South and West—the parson, the colonel, the slave, the soldier, the negro (victims—nearly all of them—of feud, pride, war, superstition, and adventure)—the book is quite alone in its class.

In certain Western cities it immediately leaped into the position of the "best selling book" of the day, and its vogue is working steadily Eastward. Of the hundred or more notices, public and private, which the publishers received, but three are adverse, and these three amounted virtually to praise.

"A remarkable book, the work of a great artist."

TOMMY & GRIZEL

"Mr. Barrie has written one of the most masterly and thought-provoking books of his generation. His psychology is superb, his style is not surpassed by anything offered in the English language these many years."—The Interior.

"Mr. Barrie has added to the slender gallery of real characters two that the world will not easily forget."—
LITERATURE.

OF TOMMY.

"Tommy is simply the most vital creature in modern fiction."—The Interior.

"The study of Thomas Sandys as a type of the actor-sentimentalist is as elaborately worked out, and almost as full of wit and humor knowledge as Mr. Meredith's study of an egoist in the person of Sir Willoughby Patterne."—The Standard (London).

"It is in the evolution of Tommy that Mr. Barrie has surpassed himself. So searching, sympathetic, and just an analysis of the 'artistic temperament' has seldom been made."—The Living Age.

OF GRIZEL.

"For spiritual beauty there is Grizel, as true and lovable a woman as novelist ever created. . . . Grizel's saga is not to be read without tears."—The Times (London).

"Grizel is a heroine who will live. . . . In the whole range of prose fiction we know of few characters more finely conceived or truly living than hers."—The Standard (London).

"Grizel is one of the most 'womanly' women of fiction."—Literature.

"The character of Grizel is certainly the high-water mark of Mr. Barrie's achievement until now."—The Standard.

"It is not hard to believe that there was an actual Tommy and a flesh-and-blood Grizel."—BOSTON HERALD.
